WASHINGTON, Nov. 27th, 1865.

Hon. W. W HOLDEN, Provisional Governor:

Accept my thanks for the noble and efficient manner in which you have discharged your duty as Provisional Governor. You will be sustained by the Government.

The results of the recent elections in North Carolina have greatly damaged the prospects of the State, in the restoration of its Governmental relations. Should the action and the spirit of the Legislature be in the same direction, it will greatly increase the mischief already done and might be fatal.

It is hoped the action and spirit manifested by the Legislature will be so directed, as rather to repair than increase the difficulties under which the State has already placed itself.

ANDREW JOHNSON,
President of the United States.

We copy the above from the Standard of yesterday. The telegram was sent to us the day before, but we thought it courteous to the Court Journal, that it should first appear in that paper.

We are behind no one in the very high respect we have for the President of the United States, and if there be but one man in the South, who respects and sustains his authority, we shall be that man. We claim to be as loyal a citizen of the United States as any living man, and we defy any one to show that by thought, word or deed, we are otherwise. We respect and will defend to the utmost the authority of Gov. Holden as Provisional Governor of the State, to the end.

The President, as the head of the nation, we acknowledge to be the conqueror and annihilator of the late Confederacy. The surrender of the Southern people was unconditional, and we acknowledge without reservation the authority of the President to impose upon the Southern people, such terms of submission, as our conqueror, as he may determine. As a good and loyal citizen, we will submit uncomplainingly to those terms. But our surrender was to a victorious and magnanimous army and to a victorious and magnanimous conqueror. The President has shown himself to be magnanimous and our people respect and esteem him for it. The above views we believe, accord fully with the views of ninety-nine hundredths of the people of the State and the great masses of the South.

The people of North Carolina and of the South anxiously await the announcement of the terms and the full terms of their surrender.—They wish to know what the conqueror intends to impose upon them—what they are to do in order to full restoration and favor with the National government; and they are ready to comply with those terms to the extent of their ability. The Southern people feel the delicacy of President Johnson's position. They believe, if he alone were concerned, the terms would be such as none would complain of. But he owes a decent respect to the will and voice of the nation, and to this it must come at last.

But there is an important distinction between the terms of the conqueror and the opinions of the conqueror. What President Johnson demands of us as the terms of our surrender must be obeyed, but his opinions of men and things, connected with our compliance, is another thing. What Gov Holden does in the execution of his office of Provisional Governor, acting under the instructions of the President, must be obeyed—No man in the State would have it otherwise. But what Gov. Holden's opinions are about men and things, is another question. Human nature is fallible. No man's opinion or judgment of men and things, is infallible. President Johnson is a wise man and so is Gov. Holden, but they are liable to err—are liable to be deceived or misled by false representations.

Now, the question which our people are anxious to have settled is this: What, in connection with the reconstruction or restoration of the State to the Union, are we to understand to be the conditions, the terms of reconstruction imposed by the President,—what he requires the people to do and how they are to do it, in order to reconciliation, and what he leaves to the free choice of the people as to their manner of doing it. His demands the people will comply with to the letter. That we read to be the spirit of our people, and nothing else. But if elections are to be held, and men are to be selected as representatives of the people to fill certian positions, how else as Americans, as citizens of the United States, are they to understand the exercise of the elective franchise, but as a free choice from among the loyal and true men of the State, for those positions? We take it upon ourself to say that no man in North Carolina, known to be hostile to the President or his plan of reconstruction or to the government, can be elected to any office in the State. No man about whom the people have doubts as to his loyalty, can be elected.

If we have truly represented the people of North Carolina in the foregoing statements, it must be evident from the telegram of President Johnson, that he views the late elections in a different light from what we do. We yield to the President a superior discrimination and a shrewder judgment in such matters, than we possess. But we have been upon the ground. We have sources of knowledge by actual contact with our people, which we think are quite equal to those possessed by other persons in the State. We think we have as strong a bias to the government.—that we are as jealous of its rights, its peace and harmony, as any other citizen. And we must say, that we can see nothing in the late elections, which indicate hostility to the President, to his plan of reconstruction, to the authority of Gov. Holden, as Provisional Governor, or to the sober judgment of the nation, but an entire approval and support of the whole.

In some few cases, unpardoned men were candidates and were elected, but the people elected them knowing them to be good and true men, and believing that the magnanimity of the President as in all other cases in the South, would endorse their action and grant them a pardon. But in no case have the people elected men of whose loyalty they have any doubts.

If the people of North Carolina in their selections, have violated any principle laid down as essential by the President, we are ignorant of it The Congress requires a "test oath" of all its members. Has the President any where laid it down as a principle, that the South must elect only such as can take the oath? If so, we have not seen it. Moreover, if he had required compliance with it, it would have been almost an impossibility. In many districts, gentlemen who could take the oath could not have been found, and in many instances the people could not have been induced to make choice of those who could take it. Why, was it because the people are hostile to the government? Certainly not. But because the people in a free choice, if left to them, could not find many men of that class whom they were willing to select.

If however, Gov. Holden's opinion of men in this State is to be the test and only test of loyalty—if only those who are advocated by the Standard and by those who represent the "strait sect" party in this State, are to be the men by which the loyalty of our people is determined, then we see no hope of securing such elections as can bear that test.

We judge of the President's views however, upon this subject, not by his telegrams to Gov. Holden approving his administration as Provisional Governor, but by the general tenor of his proclamation, and all his speeches and declarations in regard to the subject of reconstruction. We understand from these that his standard of loyalty, is a very different one from that set up by the teachings of the Standard.

Political Hypocrisy.

We have a set of politicians in this State, who pretend to be particularly anxious that no one should be elected to the Senate or to the lower House of Congress, who cannot take the oath.—This idea has been turned over and over, and presented in various forms and urged upon us with apparent sincerity, in the face of positive demonstrations, that all this cant in North Carolina simply means, vote for Holden men. Look at the facts in this State. Three or four men were brought out in this State for Congress only, of whom it is asserted they could take the oath. But in every case except one, they were such men as could not secure a respectable vote. So far as the Standard was concerned it manifested but little interest in the election of these men. But in the case of Col. Brown and Col. Russ, neither of whom could take it, the strongest efforts were made in securing their election.

In a telegraphic dispatch sent from this city to the Associated Press, by Mr. Pennington the editor of the Progress, who is professedly a strong advocate for electing none but those who can take it, special pains are taken to announce the names of Messrs. Reade, Holden, Pool, Settle, Dick and others, as spoken of for the United States Senate, leaving out of view every name that is considered anti-Holden. Now if any of these gentlemen are brought forward, it will be mainly by the Holden men—by those whose special friends want "test oath" men elected—Not one of these gentlemen can take the oath, nor have they named any man for that office, who can take it.

An Enquiry.

Will it meet the approbation of the President, for the Legislature to elect Gov. Holden to the U. S. Senate? Does the President desire that we should elect men who can take the oath? If so, Gov. Holden cannot be the man. He would not think of taking it. Who then can take it, who would be acceptable to the President? Have we any man who claims to be a North Carolinian, who can take it, who would be acceptable? The confidence which it is believed that Gov Holden and the President both have in Dr. Powell, seem to point him out as the only man, if he can take it? Can he take it?

State Printer.

The vote by which the editor of this paper was elected State Printer on yesterday, is not only flattering, but is highly appreciated by him. He begs leave to tender his warmest thanks to those in both Houses who voted for him. Those who voted against him, no doubt followed their own convictions of duty, and while they do not expect our thanks, we assure them they have our kindest good wishes.

Gen. Grant.

This distinguished officer came to this city on Tuesday night, attended by several officers. He is on a tour of inspection and moves in his usually quiet way. He visited both Houses of the Legislature on yesterday, and was received in a manner becoming his high position.

Mr. Covington introduced the following resolution.

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the Speaker to wait upon Lt. Gen'l Grant, now in this City, and invite him at such time as may suit his convenience to visit the Senate Chamber, and allow the members of the body an opportunity to pay their respects to him.

The resolution was agreed to and Messrs. Covington, Warren and Eure were appointed upon the committee.

The committee to wait on Gen. Grant appeared and the distinguished officer was introduced to the Speaker by Mr. Warren.

The Speaker addressed Gen. Grant as follows:

GEN. GRANT: In behalf of the Senate of North Carolina, I most cordially welcome you to our State and to a seat in our body. Your name is forever linked with American history. Your great abilities were called forth and gave world-wide reputation, won in an unfortunate and bloody conflict between the two sections of our great and glorious Union. This conflict should never have taken place. But we cannot recall the past, and our thoughts are now on the future. One section has been prostrated by the conflict, but we have witnessed with admiration and gratitude the noble and magnanimous spirit exhibited by our Chief Magistrate, the President, in his efforts to restore us to our proper position as a member of the great American Union. We are glad to know, that during the unhappy struggle, and now, your feelings were, and are, liberal and kind; and that humanity always marked your conduct.

Nor do we fail to remember your chivalry and magnanimity at Appomattox Court House on the day of Gen. Lee's surrender.

Allow me again to welcome you on this and all other occasions during your sojourn in our City, to a seat in our body.

Gen. Grant was then invited by the Speaker to a seat beside him.

Upon motion of Mr. Warren, the Senate took a recess of half an hour in order to permit Senators to be introduced to the distinguished visitor. Gen. Grant was accompanied by a portion of his staff.

At the expiration of the half hour, the Senate was called to order, Gen. Grant having retired, and

On motion of Mr. Wiggins, the Senate adjourned until 11 o'clock to-morrow.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

WEDNESDAY, November 29th.

The House met at 11 o'clock A. M.

Prayer by Rev. B. Craven D. D. of the M. E. Church.

The journal of yesterday was read and approved.

Mr. McAden introduced a resolution adopting the constitutional amendment to abolish slavery in the United States. The Speaker suggested that the resolution could not be considered at present, the House not having been informed officially of the organization of the Senate.

The resolution was withdrawn temporarily.

Messrs. Horton of Wilkes and Gidney of Cleaveland, appeared and were qualified.

On motion of Mr. Henry, a committee of three was appointed to wait on Lieut. Gen. U. S. Grant, and invite him to a seat on the floor of the House.

This committee consisting of Messrs. Henry, Manly and Blackmer, subsequently reported that Gen. Grant would visit the House at 12 o'clock M. to-day.

Mr. McKay, from the committee appointed to prepare rules of order, submitted a report which was read and adopted.

A message was received from the Senate announcing its due organization.

Mr. Blackmer, from the committee to which was referred the resolution of inquiry as to the qualification of Mr. R. Y. McAden, one of the representatives from Alamance county, reported as follows:

Your Committee appointed to inquire into and report upon the right of R. Y. McAden to a seat in the House of Commons have had the matter under consideration and submit the following report.

From the affidavit of R. Y. McAden and from the testimony of a disinterested witness we have obtained the following facts. Mr. McAden is more than twenty-one years of age, is a native of North Carolina, has always resided in the State and he has been a citizen of Alamance County for five years or more: He was regularly elected as a representative from his county at the election ordered by the late Convention and received a certificate of his election from the Provisional Sheriff of his county. The ammesty oath was taken by him, the certificate of which, signed by two Provisional Justices of the Peace of his county, was produced before us, and he was permitted to vote in the subsequent elections. He is not excluded from the benefits of the Amnesty Proclamation of the President of the United States issued on the 29th day of May last.

Shortly after the date of the President's Proclamation Mr. McAden became uneasy about the 13th clause thereof, not knowing at what date the value of property would be estimated, well knowing that at the commencement of the war he was worth more than twenty thousand dollars, most of which he lost during the war. After mature deliberation and by the advice of a member of the Provisional Government in this City, he concluded, through abundant caution, to make application for a special pardon for the reason that he might be worth twenty thousand dollars. In his petition he stated that his estate consisted of land, bank stock and North Carolina war bonds, and owing to the probable worthlessness of this stock and bonds, he did not believe he was worth the amount necessary to exclude him from the benefits of the Amnesty Proclamation, but if by any mode, or time of estimation he might be worth twenty thousand dollars, he desired a special pardon.

After having sent his petition forward, it was announced by his Excellency, Gov. Holden that the estimated value of property on the 29th of May, 1865, would be the guide in all cases coming under the 13th exception of the amnesty proclamation, and Mr. McAden gave himself no further trouble about the case. The Justices of the Peace who gave him the certificate of having taken the amnesty oath, well knew that he had applied for a special pardon, but they permitted him to take the oath and gave him a certificate, they being satisfied that he was not worth twenty thousand dollars at the close of the war.

For these reasons your committee are satisfied that Mr. McAden was entitled to take, and has a right to hold his seat as a member of this House. Your committee would therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolution.

Resolved, That R. Y. McAden is legally entitled to his seat as a member of the House of Commons from the County of Alamance.

All of which your committee respectfully submit, and ask to be discharged.

LUKE BLACKNER,
WM A. JENKINS,
W. T. FAIRCLOTH.

The resolution was unanimously adopted

On motion of Mr. Manly, a message was sent to the Senate proposing that an election be forthwith held for three Engrossing Clerks.

The following nominations were sent with the message, viz:

By Mr. Manly—Messrs. E. B. Freeman and Charles M. Busbee of Wake.
By Mr. Waugh—John A Hampton of Yadkin.
By Mr. Everett—Bennet Barnes of Wayne.
By Mr. Joyner—Erasmus F. Page of Wake.
By Mr. McKay—M. J McSween of Richmond.
By Mr. Sharpe—James A. Moore of Wake.

A message was received from the Senate proposing to go forthwith into an election for Public Printer, and announcing the nomination in that body of Messrs. Jos. W. Holden and Wm. E Pell.

The House concurring, voted as follows:

For Mr. Pell—Messrs. Speaker, Mr. Allison, Arrington, Barnett, Baxter, Bonner, Caldwell, Cameron, Chadwick, Cox, Crawford, Dalby, Dargan, Davis, of Carteret, Davis, of Halifax, Everett, Farrow, Faison, Foster, Furr, Gaines, Garland, Gidney, Harper, Hanrahan, Holmes, Honston, Hyman, Jenkins, of Warren, Jones, Joyner, Judkins, Kenan, Lee, of Gates, Leigh, of Tyrrell, Luke, Marler, McAden, McGuire, McIntosh, McNair, Melson, Moore, of Alamance, Moore, of Martin, Mott, Murphy, Nivens, Roseboro, Russell, Sharpe, Shaw, Simmons, Smith, of Columbus, Smith, of Cumberland, Smith, of Guilford, Teague, Thigpen, Webb, Whitley, Williams, Wilson, Yellowly.—61.

For Mr Holden—Messrs Ashworth, Beasley, Black, Blair, Blythe, Bryson, Burgess, Burton, Candler, Carson, Coates, Dickey, Dunn, Faircloth, of Greene, Ferrell, Flythe, Garland, Hamilton, Harrison, Hodnett, Holderby, Horton, Jenkins, of Gaston, Jenkins, of Granville, Kinney, Lyon, Matthews, McDonald, Moore, of Chatham, Nicks, Newsum, Palmer, Paschall, Potter, Stilley, Scoggin, Thompson, Trull, Waugh, York—40

The House concurred in a message from the Senate proposing the appointment of a committee of two on the part of each House, to wait upon his Excellency, the Provisional Governor, and inform him of the organization of the two Houses.

The Speaker appointed Messrs. Wheeler and Page as the House branch of the committee.

This committee subsequently reported through Mr Wheeler, that His Excellency would communicate by message with the two Houses to-morrow.

Mr. Luke from the committee that superintended the election of Public Printer reported as follows:

Whole number of votes cast 147. Necessary to a choice 74. Of these, Mr. Pell received 86; Mr. Holden 61.

Mr McAden introduced the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, The Congress of the United States by joint resolution, approved on the first day of February A. D. 1865, proposed an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, for the ratification of the Legislatures of the several States, which amendment is in the following words to wit:

"Article 13th, Section 1st. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States—or any place subject to their jurisdiction."

Sec 2 Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

Approved February 2nd, 1865.

Resolved, therefore by the Senate and House of Commons of the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina, That the aforesaid proposed amendment of the Constitution of the United States be and the same is hereby accepted and ratified by this State.

Resolved, That a certified copy of the foregoing preamble and resolution be forwarded by his Excellency the Provisional Governor to his Excellency the President of the United States, and also to the Secretary of State of the United States.

Mr. Hutchison of Mecklenburg, offered the following amendment.

Resolved, That any legislation by Congress, upon the political status of freedmen or their civil relations would be unauthorized by the Constitution of the United States as it now is, or as it would be, changed by the proposed amendment; in opposition to the policy of the President, declared in the amnesty proclamation, and to the restoration of that harmony upon which depends the welfare and prosperity of the Republic.

Mr. Hutchison, said that the amendment would do no harm and might do good. The leading organs of public opinion North, already hold that the adoption of the Constitutional amendment abolishing slavery would confer on Congress the power to legislate upon the rights of individuals in the States. Nothing, he said, could be more clear than that Congress has no such right

Mr. McAden, agreed to the principle embodied in the amendment, but thought it could do no good, but might do immense harm. The additional resolution would not become a part of the Constitution, and would only serve to show the Radical Republicans an unwillingness on our part to accept the Constitutional amendment without a proviso.

Mr. Caldwell, asked the withdrawal of the amendment. Its adoption would (he thought) be deemed factious.

Messrs. Henry, Blackmer and Sharpe, also opposed the amendment for like reasons.

Mr. McDonald, suggested a reference of the resolutions to a committee.

Pending further discussion Gen'l Grant, and Staff appeared in the Hall,

Seats having been assigned them, the Speaker addressed General Grant as follows:

GENERAL GRANT:

In the name of the people of North Carolina, I welcome you to a seat upon this floor. It is a matter of personal gratification to me that it has fallen to my part to perform this duty.

After having been, in the hand of God the chief instrument in restoring our country to its proper territorial proportions, it is your singular good fortune to be universally regarded as being qualified to play a great part in re establishing those other bonds which are essential to the full re-organization of a free society

In your ability and disposition to advance this prime object, we entertain great confidence, and hope for you therein a success not less than that which has attended your deeds in arms.

Accept, General Grant, our best wishes for your personal welfare and happiness.

On motion of Mr. Wilson, the House then took a recess of 15 minutes to afford the members an opportunity of paying their respects to the distinguished guest.

At the expiration of the recess Gen. Grant and Staff withdrew to visit the Senate, and the House resumed the unfinished business.

The question recurring on the amendment proposed by Mr. Hutchison, the yeas and nays were ordered, on motion of Mr. Russell, and the amendment was rejected.

Those who voted in the affirmative were

Messrs. Arrington, Everett, Faison, Hutchison, Kenan, Manly, McIntosh, Moore of Martin, Simmons and Thigpen—10.

In the negative

Messrs. Speaker, Allison, Ashworth, Barnett, Beasley, Black, Blackmer, Blair, Blythe, Bonner, Bryson, Burgess, Burton, Caldwell, Cameron, Candler, Carson, Chadwick, Coates, Craige, Crawford, Dalby, Dickey, Dunn, Faircloth of Greene, Faircloth of Wayne, Ferrell, Flythe, Foster, Furr, Gaines, Garland, Gidney, Hamilton, Harper, Harrison, Henry, Hodnett, Holderby, Holmes Horton, Houston, Jenkins of Gaston, Jenkins of Granville, Jones, Judkins, Lee of Gates, Leigh of Tyrrell, Logan, Lucas, Lyon, Marler, Matthews, McAden, McDonald, McEachen, McGuire, McKay, Melson, Moore of Alamance, Moore of Chatham, Mott, Murrill, Nivens, Nicks, Newsum, Page, Palmer, Paschall, Potter, Roseboro, Russell, Sharpe, Smith of Columbus, Smith of Cumberland, Smith of Guilford, Stilley, Scoggin, Teague, Thompson, Trull, Waugh, Wheeler, Williams, Wilson, Yellowly, York—85.

The question recurring on the passage of the resolutions, Mr. Wilson moved to postpone further action until one o'clock to-morrow. He thought this a courtesy due to the Governor, whose message, which would be received to-morrow, would doubtless contain information and suggestions concerning the pending matter.

The motion to postpone was rejected, 28 only voting in the affirmative.

The question recurring, the yeas and nays were ordered, on motion of Mr. Jenkins of Granville, and the resolutions were adopted.

Those who voted in the affirmative were

Messrs. Speaker, Allison, Arrington, Ashworth, Barnett, Baxter, Beasley, Black, Blackmer, Blair, Blythe, Bonner, Bryson, Burgess, Burton, Caldwell, Cameron, Candler, Carson, Chadwick, Coates, Cowan, Cox, Craige, Crawford, Dalby, Davis of Carteret, Dickey, Dunn, Faircloth of Green, Faircloth of Wayne, Ferrell, Flythe, Foster, Furr, Gaines, Garland, Gidney, Hamilton, Harper, Harrison, Henry, Hodnett, Holderby, Hoke, Holmes, Horton, Houston, Hutchison, Jenkins of Gaston, Jenkins of Granville, Jones, Judkins, Kinney, Lee of Gates, Leigh of Tyrrell, Logan, Lucas, Lyon, Manly, Marler, Matthews, McAden, McEachen, McGuire, McIntosh, McKay, McNair, Melson, Moore of Alamance, Moore of Chatham, Mott, Murphy, Murrill, Nivens, Nicks, Newsum, Page, Palmer, Paschall, Potter, Roseboro, Russell, Sharpe, Shaw, Smith of Columbus, Smith of Cumberland, Smith of Guilford, Stilley, Scoggin, Teague, Thompson, Trull, Waugh, Webb, Wheeler, Whitley, Wilson, Yellowly, York—99.

Those who voted in the negative were

Messrs. Everett, Faison, Luke, Thigpen—4.

A message was received from the Senate announcing its concurrence in the proposition of the House to proceed forthwith to an election of Engrossing Clerks, and adding to the nominations the name of Mr. John H. Boner of Forsythe.

The Joint Committee that superintended this election subsequently reported that 161 votes were cast. Necessary to a choice 81. Of these, Messrs Freeman and McSween received the requisite number and were declared elected.

The House then adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow.

Hang, Kill, Slay, Confiscate.

The Hon. George W. Julian, member of Congress from Indiana, in a recent speech in Indianapolis, thus spoke:

"But, gentlemen, we have caught him (Jeff. Davis) By the providence of God, and through the vigilance of your soldiers, he is in your power to day. Now I would indict him, and pay him the compliment of a decent trial by the forms of law. I would convict him, and then build a gallows, and hang him in the name of God (applause.) Talk about mercy to Jeff. Davis! Why, it is not in the dictionary (laughter). It is like the Constitution in relation to the rebels, who have sinned away their rights under it by treason. It has ceased to exist, as to them. * * * I demand the execution of Jeff. Davis. And inasmuch as the gallows is the symbol of infamy throughout the civilized world, I would give him the gallows, which is far too good for his neck.

And I would not stop with Davis. Why should I? There is old General Lee, as hungry for the gallows as Davis. (Applause.) He is running up and down the hills and valleys of old Virginia as if nothing at all had happened; and lately I have heard that he has been offered the Presidency of a college; going to turn missionary and school master, I suppose to teach the young idiots how to shoot. At the same time he is to write a history of the rebellion. Gentlemen, I would have it written by a loyal man, and I would have him put in a chapter giving an account of the hanging of Lee as a traitor.—(Cheers.) What right has Lee to be running at large while the government thus confesses that treason is no crime? What right has he to be in any place, without repentance, except in the ninth or lowest hell, where Dante says all traitors are found?

What right have you to cheat the Constitution out of his neck? I notice that Wirz, some days before he was hung, sent for a copy of Baxter's Call to the Unconverted. I would give Lee a copy of the same book, but I would let him be hung, and leave God to determine what should be done with his soul. (Applause.)

Nor would I stop with Lee. I would hang liberally while I had my hand in.

But suppose you were to hang or exile all these leaders—for if you don't hang all of them you should put them out of the way—your work, then, is only just begun. You ought, in the next place, to take their large landed estates and parcel them out among our soldiers and seamen, and the poor people of the South—black and white—as a basis of real democracy and genuine civilization. (Cheers.)

And this Julian is pertectly sincere—is sincere as Marat and Robespierre—and all the men of this hanging and confiscating school.

The War Department orders that Camp Douglas near Chicago, be repaired.

Wood and Willow Ware, Crockery and Glass Ware, and a superior lot of Family Groceries

Take my stock altogether, I have one among the largest and most desirable and complete stocks of Staple and Fancy Dry Goods in the City.

Now, allow me to say that I bought my Goods to sell, and they must and shall be sold; but I don't expect to take a piece of poetry in one hand and a full grown humbug in the other and climb up to the clouds and fish out the birds of Paradise and gently bring them down with a placard stuck on their backs, "Selling out at Cost! selling out at cost!" No, I deal in no such humbug. I keep no such a class of Goods. I keep no time worn, sheif-rubbed, defaced or dusty Goods—dust so thick you can rub it off with a knife. My Goods are all new, and of good styles, and I intend to sell them as low as anybody that bought goods with the expectation of paying for them, and the man that sold the goods to the man that don't intend to pay for them, is a fool—and the man that sells them is a rascal. Now this is plain talk, but 'tis no slip of the tongue. I mean what I say, and say what I mean. I have lived here and sold goods here for twenty years. I expect to remain here pay my taxes to support Institutions of the City, County and the State. I expect to continue to do so. I respectfully ask my old customers, my old friends and new ones to call and examine my stock. I will deal with you honest and treat you right. If I don't sell you goods as cheap as you can buy the same class of goods elsewhere I don't expect you to buy. Call at the S. Smith building, house formerly occupied by Creech & Litchford, Merchants and Auctioneers.

White Labor in North Carolina.

When the immortal Galileo forced by the bigotry of the age in which he lived to recant his heretical doctrine of the revolution of the world on its axis, was on his bended knees before the reverend father he suddenly paused in his recantation and fervently striking his bosom cried, "But it does move though." Yes, the world moves. The car of progress is moving on. The wilderness which but a few short years ago resounded with the howl of the panther and the war-whoop of the savage, now blossoms as the rose of the valley, and rings with the loud hum of commerce. The valley of the Mississippi, and valley of the Lakes have become the seat of a mighty nation. Rolling on, the stream of civilization has leveled mountains, and opened itself a way through the eternal barriers of the Rocky Mountains. On the golden sands of the Pacific the industry of the white man has found a home, in the trackless fields of nature, he has created an empire. To any one who thinks at all the question must occur why is it that the cold bleak prairies of the North West should be overspread with cities and villages, and why is it that the still colder and the far off districts of Washington, Idaho and Montana should attract the stream of population, while our own sunny South with its streams, its valleys and its mountains with the finest lands and the loveliest climate of any country on the globe, should stand still in the march of improvement. The answer is found in the words of a distinguished man, "But for the incubus of African slavery," said he, "Virginia would today have been richer than New York." The force of circumstances has at length burst the chain that bound us. The cause that turned the fertilizing stream from our doors to that of our less favored neighbors and sent our youth, our talent and our enterprise to seek a field in the far West has ceased to exist. I am far from approving the means by which this has been accomplished, but the deed has been one of mercy in disguise. The South has awakened from her long lethargy. She has come out of the fiery ordeal of war penniless but not poor. For how can that nation be poor which has the soil upon which is grown two most important products—cotton and tobacco—for a supply of which the entire world looks almost to her alone. With thousands of miles of seacoast, with hundreds of harbors and navigable rivers, with millions of fertile acres, and with an untarnished record for the past and hope for the future how can such a country be poor?

The South during four years of a struggle unparalleled in history, has lost hundreds of thousands of her laborers, white and black, and when we take into consideration the decrease in the amount of work that will be performed by the negro under the new order of things, we may feel safe in saying, the South is to-day minus one half of her labor. Whence is this deficit to be supplied? She has millions upon millions of acres as virgin to the plough as when "the Indian warrior wooed his dusky maid" in the depths of her forests. Whence the labor by which they are to be cultivated? She has unrivalled water power, cities for harbors, cities and towns, the finest rivers of the continent and mines of inexhaustible store. Whence are these to be founded, and those to be made to subserve the grand purpose of the general welfare? No one expects that the negro will perform these grand purposes. No one anticipates that year after year, century after century the negro will remain here among us with a status undefined and a destiny unrecognisable. No, the white laborer must come here, sooner or later, he must come, and unless we are recreant to ourselves and country, he will come now.

The South has fought for independence. She has failed. When the South has put white laborers in her valleys, her mountains, her mines and her workshops, when her hillsides are dotted with homesteads, her water courses with manufactories, her valleys with cities and her harbors with shipping, I care not what flag shall float over her capitols, the South will be independent. When this is done, though her arms have failed, her independence will have been accomplished. Without this no matter what her arms might have achieved, she never, never could have been free, prosperous, happy or independent. Particularly do these remarks apply to North Carolina. Her immense resources are unknown, her mines unexplored, her lands uncultivated, and herself unappreciated. The white laborer is at your command. Wealth is in your lap. Bring him here, develop your resources, work your mines, till your lands and build your towns. The State is crying for capital! capital! Bring the labor here, put it to work, and a single year will bring a return of wealth that will set all the wheels of commerce a-going. The negro cannot live among us in the present state of things. The proclamation of his freedom was the death knell of his race. Like the red man of the forest, "he must read his destiny in the setting sun." Slavery is dead, let us rid us ourselves of the dead carcass. Let us bring white labor here and capital will follow. In Texas this year they have raised large cotton crops solely with whites. Next year we must do so in North Carolina. When our people appreciate their interest in this matter, and act upon it, then will our State take her stand where she was in 1790, and where she ought to be now—among the first on the roll of States. Our valleys will teem with population, our people be laden with wealth, our villages will become towns, and our towns will become cities, we will have weight at the ballot box and on the "field of bayonets", and will indeed become "A POWER IN THE STATE."

How Lord Palmerston Wanted to Fight the United States.

The following passage occurs in an article on Lord Palmerston in the November number of Blackwood's Magazine:

"In the Trent affair, on which it is now no longer a secret that Lord Palmerston made up his own mind to go to war with the Federal States, the Emperor of the French, equally long-sighted, agreed with Lord Palmerston; and had there not been with him in the Cabinet men to whom the thought of war under any circumstances is dreadful, the message sent to Washington would have required a short and categorical answer, because a fleet equipped for action would have escorted it to the mouth of the Chesapeake. In the Cabinet, however, there sat at that time not only Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Milner Gibson, and Mr. Villiers, but Sir George Cornwall Lewis, the most subtle of political reasoners, the most pacific of ministers—one who could never be brought to see that in the lives of nations, as in those of private persons, there are moments when, though it can never be becoming to do wrong for its own sake, it is perfectly justifiable to anticipate others and to avert an injury meditated against ourselves by inflicting it on them. We had when the outrage on the Trent was committed, a long list of outrages to be accounted for. We had been cheated—for there is no other word for it—in the Ashburton treaty. The States claimed as their own territory what they had in their possession the clearest proof belonged to us; and as if to cap this outrage, the island of St. Juan, admitted to be ours up to the moment of its occupation by an American force, was invaded and kept military possession of. These, with other lesser, but not, therefore, unimportant wrongs, rankled and festered, and the Trent outrage presented such an opportunity as could never be expected to occur again for righting them all by a process which would have benefitted the whole world. Had we struck then, as Lord Palmerston was anxious that we should do, the Southern States would have achieved their independence and become to us faithful allies as well as our very best customers.

Efforts to Induce a Change in the President's Policy.

That element of the President's policy towards the South which has, thus far, both adorned and made it successful, is the element of generosity. "We must trust the South," said he, and he has acted in accordance with that sentiment. Impressed with the President's generous and kindly sentiments, the Southern people have desired to comply with his requirements. To comply with the wishes of Radical politicians who desire only to humiliate and oppress them, they have no desire. They would rather let them do their worst, and bear it in disdainful silence, than sue to them for kind and gentle measures. It is very different with the President and the moderate and conservative men who share his sentiments. It is the sincere desire of the Southern people to act according to their wishes. "The Nation says, "What Mr Johnson insists upon is done, and that grudgingly." The Southern people make a distinction between the opinions and wishes of Mr. Johnson himself, and the requirements he exacts under the pressure of radicalism. The Southern people will do cheerfully all that the President himself wishes them to do, and if they have done anything "grudgingly," it was not from disrespect towards the President, but because they felt instinctively that they were not demands voluntarily made upon them by the President, but that they proceeded from demands made upon him by the Radicals. This is one of the necessities of the situation in which events have placed him. They wish to see the President separated from Radical influences, and carrying out his own chosen policy. That policy they will cheerfully submit to, and they will do all in their power to render it successful. But the unfriendly and tyrannical policy of these Radicals, no matter through what channels it may flow, they are under no obligations to extol and uphold. They will submit to it because it is a necessity, but they cannot be expected to co-operate cheerfully in fixing it upon themselves. They will resist nothing, but they have the right to be passive. All laws they will obey, and they will faithfully observe all the obligations of their amnesty oaths. If the Radicals are to be ascendant, and to do as they please, let them go on "conquering and to conquer." They can fix the affairs of the Southern States to suit themselves. There will be no hypocritical kissing of the rod.

With President Johnson, and President Johnson's own policy, the case, as we have said, is different. They will not only cheerfully submit to it, but will aid him in carrying it out—because they have faith in him as a man, a statesman and a patriot. Night and day their prayer is that he may not yield to the pressure of the Radicals, or even of those men in the Republican party who favor more stringent measures than consist with his views and wishes. He is the real master of the situation, and by firmly maintaining the stand he holds, can bring the bulk of the Republican party, the whole of the Democratic party, and the entire unbroken South to his support.

There is reason to apprehend a mighty pressure upon the President at and after the opening of Congress. The presages of a great struggle multiply from day to day. The Radical leaders are running hither and thither to meet in conference. Letters and messages are daily passing between them. The conservative Republicans are perplexed and troubled. They wish to preserve the integrity of that party with which they have acted during the war, indeed, from the campaign which ended in Mr. Lincoln's first election. They wish, if possible, so to harmonize conflicting views and interests as to continue their connection with the radicals, and to retain President Johnson as the head of their party. From this source, that is, from these conservative Republicans, will come the pressure upon the President from which most danger is to be feared. They will operate between the Radicals and the President. Their aim will be to induce them to abate somewhat of their violent and extreme views, and to induce the President to depart in some degree from the generous measures he has been trying. If their efforts prevail, their organization will continue, and will sustain the modified policy that the President will inaugurate. Should such an accommodation be effected, the whole political aspect will be changed, and a new order of things will arise in the South. Should it fail, the threatened division of the Republican organization will occur. The Radicals will go off under the leadership of Sumner and Thaddeus Stevens, and the conservatives will range themselves under the banners of the President, and maintain his present policy with, perhaps some slight modifications.

The Nation, an ambitious journal in the interest of the Radicals, makes its appeal to the Congress about to assemble. It says: "What Mr. Johnson insists upon is done, and that grudgingly; but he has insisted upon nothing which will prevent the reduction of the blacks to a condition but one degree removed, from and, in some respects, more marked by physical suffering than slavery itself, the minute the States are restored to the Union and the military force withdrawn. In short, unless Congress does its duty, we shall, in our opinion, witness at the South, during the next few years, one of the most tremendous and revolting crimes ever perpetrated by a community laying claims to civilization, and we shall witness the substitution for slavery of a social organization, marked by every feature which made slavery politically dangerous."

The meaning of this is that Congress shall take the policy of reconstruction or restoration, or whatever it may be called, out of the President's hands, cancel what he has done, and force negro suffrage and negro equality upon the Southern States; that to the South no power, no discretion shall be left in regard to the negro, for the alleged reason that the South would shamefully abuse such power and discretion, and place the negro in a condition as bad as that of slavery.

How little the writer of that article and those who hold similar views know of Southern character—how little of human nature. Having emancipated the negroes and left them to live in the South side by side with the whites who were their former owners, and who, notwithstanding all the declarations of hired letter writers to the contrary, are the best friends they have on earth, if they will now deal magnanimously with the Southern people, the Southern people will make it a point of honor to deal magnanimously with the negroes. If, on the contrary, they leave nothing to them, but deal with them as if they were unworthy of trust and confidence, and attempt to force upon them all manner of disagreeable and disgusting conditions, just so surely will they create between the Southern whites and blacks an unnatural relation that will bring woe to both—and just so surely will they see their policy frustrated in the end if it takes fifty years. It does not consist with justice and the designs of Providence that stability and permanence shall be imparted to measures of Government that originate in malevolence and revenge.—Rich. Whig.

The Louisville Journal says that "the Hon John Bell, of Tennessee, is about to write a letter to the President of the United States, which will doubtless attract much attention. Mr. Bell's position and motives have been misunderstood, and consequently misrepresented."

The new negro code of South Carolina provides that when a colored man fails to maintain his wife and children, he shall be bound to service from year to year by the District Judge, and his wages shall be used for their support.

The London Daily News strongly endorses the policy of President Johnson.

Things of More Importance than Test Oaths.

We need repose after the restless and feverish excitements of war. As if upon wings of the tempest, we have been hurried forward to a point in our career where reason must resume its sway, or the country will be plunged into great if not remediless disasters.

The only legitimate end of war is peace; to prosecute it for any purpose is crime. But if sectional agitation which has already culminated in war is never to cease; if war is to be followed by an interminable conflict of irreconcileable opinions; if measures designed for the public good are always to be warped and distorted to subserve the ends of party, then the blood and treasure so profusely lavished in the late war will to say the least of it, prove a useless and unprofitable expenditure; and the history of the United States will soon become an additional and mournful proof of the plaintive declaration of the great Roman historian, "that liberty is of slow growth, but quick to decay."

The mariner driven by stress of weather into the chartless seas of a dangerous coast, has not more need of fair weather to refit his crazy vessel and return to the course from which he has been driven, than we have of a season of calm reflection, to prepare for our voyage into the undiscovered regions of that unknown and troubled future which now lies before us.

Those who cling to the prejudices of the past; those whose minds have been narrowed in the service of party, or clouded by its bitter and implacable resentments, may indeed delude themselves into the belief that all the clouds that lowered on the country have disappeared forever, now that the territorial integrity of the Union has been preserved, and Slavery and Secession are numbered among the things that were.

We cannot but believe that those who think in this way reason unwisely. They forget that all great public movements which suddenly change the face of society, along with the contemplated good, are almost sure to bring much of unforeseen evil. They forget that good and evil are so intimately and mysteriously interwoven with the whole texture of human affairs, that nations, as well as individuals, ever fail to realize in the possession, what they hoped for in the pursuit of an object. This stern fatality, inseparable from human effort, makes philosophy skeptical in regard even to necessary reforms, and compels her to own that rational progress itself is often but an exchange of old difficulties for new.

It requires no prophetic eye to see the difficulties which will soon press upon the government of the United States in the hour of its greatest victory. It has accomplished every thing it attempted to do. Slavery, that "scarlet sin" which in the estimation of some Northern men, made the Union "a covenant with Hell," is no more. But in its place, we have several millions of colored people who are without homes or property, while constitutionally opposed to labor; who desire all the benefits of freedom without any of its obligations or salutary restraints; who, constantly plied with insidious arguments, aspire to political equality, without the moral training or mental culture necessary to fit men to discharge the duties of citizenship in a free Republic. What is to be their destiny, and how in their progress towards it, they are to affect the fortunes of the white inhabitants of these Southern States, are questions which time alone can answer. On this subject, recent developments in the States of Louisiana and Georgia are not suggestive of hope, while the experience we have derived from the experiments of the French and British in the West India Islands, is by no means cheering, but on the contrary, rather calculated to tinge with ever-deepening shadow, the destiny of both races.

And Secession, too, is obsolete. It could be destroyed by force; but in its stead we have an evil, which armies can create, but cannot remove. We have a public debt greater, we believe, in proportion to our wealth and population, than ever was contracted, much less paid, by any nation of ancient or modern times. And yet that debt must be paid, or it will destroy the country. It was credit which bore the Government of the United States successfully through the late struggle. Without credit it will not long be of sufficient force to contend either against domestic or foreign foes. This is a self-evident proposition.

And how is that debt to be paid? We can see but one possible way, and that is the reconstruction of the agricultural prosperity of the South. That would put the commerce of the country on a permanent basis, and open up a source of public revenue richer and more exhaustless than the mines of California and Australia. This is a matter which more nearly concerns the country than test oaths, or any other political scheme, which has for its ultimate object the triumph of party, and the consequent emoluments of office. This is the great work of the country. It can only be accomplished through good government. And by good government we mean a return to those principles and ideas whose general diffusion, in times past, gave nearly a century of peace and unexampled prosperity to the country, through the successful operation of a government of enumerated, and, therefore, of limited powers. Let the government perish, either through excess of centralization or the want of it, and the future of the country will either be the anarchy of the South American Republics, or the fixed and settled calm of Asiatic degradation and servitude.

We believe that President Johnson, as best he may, is endeavoring to steer the ship of State between these perilous extremes. And so believing, we wish him all success. And we deeply regret that the signs of the times do not seem to justify a firmer belief in his capacity, or in the ability of mortal man, to give permanent ascendancy to the right reason of the country, over that wild and fearful insurrection of its passions, which Phillips, Stevens and others seem most willing to excite.—Richmond Sentinel.

A Negro Conspiracy Discovered and Broken Up in Mississippi--The San Domingo and Jamaica Insurrection to be Repeated--Arrests Made--Great Excitement, Etc.

CAIRO, November 23.—A well-known citizen of Mississippi, in whose statements we place the utmost confidence, informs us that some time since the citizens of Ripley, Mississippi, were led to believe from certain movements of the negroes in that vicinity, that something unusual was going on. Negroes were discovered making mysterious visits to LaGrange, going and returning frequently.

This aroused suspicion, and the citizens determined to ferret out the designs of the negroes.—They accordingly held a meeting, and appointed two of the number detectives. The citizens, to whom the duty of discovering the plans of the negroes had been intrusted, performed their duty well, and obtained the information they desired. They dressed themselves in Federal uniforms, ingratiated themselves into the confidence of the negroes who appeared to be the leaders in the mysterious movement, ascertained that a conspiracy had been organized among the blacks, extending from the Mississippi river to South Carolina, and that an insurrection was contemplated about Christmas.

The plans of the negroes were being rapidly consummated, and had they not been discovered, would undoubtedly have resulted in the horrors of San Domingo and Jamaica in the Southern States. Four of the ringleaders have been arrested, two of whom have made confession, and divulged information which led to the capture of the arms and amunition of the conspirators.—Great excitement prevailed for a time. A feeling of security has been created by the fact that prompt measures have been taken to nip in the bud any future attempts of the insurrectionists.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The Cabinet session today was again protracted. The ante-rooms of the White House were, consequently, bare of visitors. Southerners are arriving freely, to confer with the President. Ex-United States Senator Hunter, of Virginia, is again here, seeking to secure absolution.

The President designs having arrangements perfected to have his message delivered to the press of the country simultaneously with its delivery to Congress.

All signs fail if the country is not to be racked at the opening of Congress with propositions of every conceivable kind in regard to the Southern States, finance, &c., calculated to keep the public mind, in a feverish condition. The people may cry peace, but there will be no peace.

The total amount of conscience money received at the Treasury Department for the year ending with June last, was $20,876. It was received in sums varying from 50 cents to $500.

President Johnson expressed this morning to a friend his intention to restore the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus at the earliest possible time, and to do away with the secret detective service.

The Star says the statement that Judge Magrath and the rebel secretary of war, Seddon, have been released from Fort Pulaski, and Gov. Lubbock from Fort Delaware, on their parole, is without foundation, and that there is no probability that either will very soon be set at liberty.

A VIRGINIA CONGRESSMAN.—One of the Richmond papers referring to Hon B. Johnson Barbour, a member of Congress elect from Virginia, remarks: "Mr. B., we are informed, owned a hundred and fifty slaves before the war, nearly all of whom stick to him still. They are free, but he is not."

Pioneer Line of Steamers

FOR

Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston, via Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal.

THE COMMODIOUS STEAMERS PIONEER and Commodore Adams, will leave Newberne for Norfolk on TUESDAY of each week at 8 o'clock A M, connecting with the different lines of steamers for the above-named points. On and after the first day of December next they will leave on Tuesday and Friday of each week, making semi-weekly trips. Shippers of Goods will receive every facility and accommodation for the transportation of the same, as arrangements have been made with the different companies to forward goods to this line at low rates and without delay. Each of these steamers are capable of carrying through the canal without difficulty, as they were built expressly for the trade. They are fitted up with STATE ROOMS and BERTHS capable of accommodating forty-five passengers. Every attention will be paid to the comfort of passengers, who will not be subject to the inconvenience of transfer to other vessels, but will be taken through direct without charge.

The tables of the steamers are liberally supplied with the best the market affords. Families traveling will find it to their interest to take this line, as they will thereby escape the danger and discomforts of a sea route, and the fatigue of railroad travel.

On the 15th of December next, if the business of the line warrants it, the steamer Williams will be put on the route, and tri-weekly trips will be made.

For freight or passage apply to Whitford, Dill & Co., Newbern, N C.

GREAT BARGAINS

IN CLOTHS AND FANCY DRY GOODS.

THE SUBSCRIBER RESPECTFULLY ANnounces to his friends and patrons, and to the Members of the Legislature, and to strangers visiting the City, that he continues to carry on the

at his old stand, where he will be happy to see them and sell them great bargains in his line. He would also call the attention of those of the Military Department wishing to purchase clothing, uniforms or citizens' dress, to the fact that they will find great bargains. In style and fame they cannot be surpassed by any in this city or any other. He deems it unnecessary to say any thing of his own skill in the Tailoring business, but it will suffice to say that his experience has not been for a few years only, but for the last 5 years. He therefore solicits a liberal patronage. Prompt attention will be given to persons wishing to have cutting done. Orders from a distance will be thankfully received and promptly attended to. Call at store No. 15 Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

MRS. FENTRESS has opened a Boarding House next door, about 150 yards from the Capitol, where she will entertain members of the Legislature or transient Boarders.
